Takes Thirty-five Mile Drive Over Moun-

WAWONA, Cal., Oct. 7 .- After a thirtyfive mile stage ride over winding mountain roads the President finds himself cottage here in the heart of the Yosemite

It has been a most interesting and restful day for the President. The mere notice was issued returnable on October 15. fact that he has been able to sit down to

The Bridal Veil Falls, with its 900 feet of silvery mist; El Capitan, the great granite edge, lifting its head 3,200 feet above the Valley; the Three Graces, the Half Dome, Inspiration Point and Lookout Point were some of the places of interes sque views and the curious freaks that visited by the President to-day. Mr. Taft was particularly interested in Mr. Muir's description of the formation of the wonderful valley by glacial denu-

"That mighty cliff yonder," said the naturalist, pointing at the Half Dome, "lost fully one mile of its height by glacial deputation. In the thousand frost have have been unable to cut it down by more than one eighth of an inch.

Capt. Archibald Butt, the President's nilitary aide, had a theory of his own about the geological formation of the "Something caused it," was his "Well," said the President after listening Mr. Muir's glacial theory, "I feel constrained to accept that explanation over capt Butt's, much as it grieves me."

The President and his party started out from El Portala at 7 o'clock in the morning. The President had a fine night's rest and was up at daybreak. With Mr. Taft in his stage, besides Mr. Muir, were Gov. Gillett of California, Senator Flint, Congressman Duncan McKinlay and Capt. Butt. Two or three other California Representatives in Congress followed in a second stage and the remainder of the Taft party brought up the rear in another which.

The probability of the President's rig, is the man who drove the first stage through the valley.

One of the most enjoyable events of the day for the President was a picnic luncheon served in the Chinquopin forest. As the President's stage drew up at Grouse Creek, with horses steaming, he and the other members of the party was pleased to see a table spread with white linen and loaded with good things peopling from a grove of pines. The morning mountain air had whetted everybody's appetite and the President and his camp followers fell to with a zest that left only a few clean chicken bones at the left only a few clean chicken bones at the end.

The luncheon had been set for the President by one of the little hotels in the valley. After the luncheon the President did his only work of the day. He umpired a game of duck on the rock as played by newspaper correspondents and other members of the party.

Big Tree Junction was one of the relay stations and there the President found most of the tourists in the valley gathered to bid him welcome. They cheered and the President bowed. It was the narrowest escape from a speech the President had.

The President was rigged out in his golf elethes for the trip. When his stage began to climb from the valley up the mountains the President got out and walked. He was at an altitude of about $3,000 feet, but it did not seem to bother him. He plodded through the dust for a mile or more until the stage driver warned him that he would be late in making Wawona.

River type, and that nine will be stationed on the Atlantic and three on the Pacific. The amount of money which Parliament will be asked to vote in the way of capital expenditure will be about $20,000,000. There will be an annual outlay for maintenance which experts place at somewhere around $3,000,000.

It is probable that Parliament will request him that he would be late in making Wawona.

In the little crowd that greeted the President at Big Tree Junction was Galen Clark, the ninety-seven-year-old pioneer who discovered the wonderful trees of the Mariposa Grove. The President will start out at 5 o'clock to-morrow to view these famous trees and the old pioneer will be his guide. The President will spend to-morrow night on Glacier Point. He will be about 6,000 feet above sea level.

TOM WHITE RETURNS.

He Left Here a Year Ago, Supposedly With $99.50.

Thomas White, 15 years old, got back to New York yesterday after an absence of one year. He didn't have a cent when he reached town, though when he went away at the age of 14 he was possessed of at least $99.50, so the police think.

Tom has been West. It wasn't the West he had believed he was to find. Even after he had got as far as Chicago he saw no Indians and not a single stage

Tom used to work for a Fifth avenue costume house, and on October 17, 1908, the boss in the delivery department sent him out with a package marked C. O. D., Tom delivered the package and that was the last the firm heard of him that read. They didn't get the money either. The police had not had time to notify the firm for whom Tom had worked, so Justice Zeller adjourned the examination until to-day.

DIVORCE RATE INCREASING

REPORT ON CENSUS BUREAU'S INVESTIGATION.

It Shows That From 1887 to the End of 1906 945.625 Divorces Were Granted and in the Previous 20 Years the Number of Divorces Was Only 328,716.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.-The Census Bureau has published a comprehensive report on marriage and divorce. The investigation of the subject was undertaken by direction of Congress and grew out of a conference in this city between representatives of various religious denon inations. The investigation has extended over a period of nearly five years.

"Apparently the divorce rate, like the velocity of a falling body, is constantly increasing," says the report, "and it is impossible to determine statistically from available data just what the results would be if the rate reached at any particular time remained constant; in other words, no statistics bearing on this question of the duration of marriages terminated by divorce have been obtained that accurately represent present conditions or conditions at any particular period, for the conditions are not static, but dynamic."

The statistics cover a period from 1887 to the end of 1906 and the total number of marriages recorded was 12,832,044. The investigation showed that in the twenty years covered the number of divorces granted was 945,625. In the twenty years from 1867 to 1886 the number twenty years from 1867 to 1886 the number was about 328,716, hardly more than one-third of the number recorded in the second twenty years. The report says that each successive five year period since 1867 has witnessed a marked increase in the number of divorces.

The report contends that it is a well established fact that the marriage rate is quickly responsive to changes in economic conditions, increasing after a commercial crisis or panic during hard times, and that especially noteworthy is the small increase shown for the year 1893 and the actual decrease in the succeeding year.

The report says that the percentage of marriages is higher in the South than in the North, and that outside the South the highest percentage prevails in the Middle West. In the South Atlantic group of States the rate was 350 marriages per 10,000 of adult numerried population

West. In the South Atlantic group of States the rate was 350 marriages per 10,000 of adult unmarried population, against 260 in the North Atlantic States, and 436 in the South Central as against 322 in North Central and 273 per 10,000 adult unmarried population in the Western group of States.

In 1906 the highest divorce rate per 100,000 estimated population (168) was likely between Congressman Griggs and William Scley Howard, who is opposing Congressman Livingston of the Atlanta district for reelection.

The Part of the North Central division
(108) was almost two and two-third times that for the North Atlantic, while that for the South Central (118) was two and threefourth times that for the South Atlantic. Broadly speaking, the divorce rate in-creases as one goes Westward.

Director Durand of the Census Bureau is expected to pay little attention to political indorsements in the appointment of enumerators, special agents and other appointments in the large cities to be made in connection with the taking of the thirteenth census. It has just developed here that at a conference held in Beverly with some of his Cabinet advisers President Taft decided that political indorsements should have little if any weight in the appointment to some of the good jobs that will be available between now and January 1. There has been considerable dissatisfaction over this method and many protests have been made by Congressmen. In the taking of previous censuses the Representative of a Congress district had the appointment of every man employed by the Census Bureau in gathering statistics in that particular district, with the exception of course of a few special agents who, in the course of their employment, visited several Congress districts in each State. This is now changed, and with the exception of appointees in rural communities Congressional in-

College men will be in the large majority in the taking of the next census. Mr. Durand's newest idea on this line is to get leaves of absence for college students to act as enumerators next May. Nearly 65,000 enumerators will be needed and they will be employed for two weeks in that month. They will get $3 a day. Mr. Durand believes that college students will make excellent enumerators.
